

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An integrated IP network telephone distributor with switching and routing functions is disclosed. A packet classifying device performs a packet classifying process to the network packets received 5 from a network for classifying the network packets into voice package or data package. The voice packet is sent to a voice processing circuit to be transformed into voice signal for output, while the data packet is sent to a connected personal computer.

10067896.020802